EASO publishes a Country of Origin Information (COI) report on the security situation in Pakistan

On 16 October 2018, the European Asylum Support Office (EASO) published a Country of Origin Information (COI) Report entitled 'Pakistan security situation'. The report is the third update of the security chapter of the EASO COI report on Pakistan, Country Overview, published in August 2015, subsequently updated in July 2016 and August 2017. The report provides information relevant for the protection status determination of Pakistani asylum seekers.

In 2017, Pakistan ranked in the top 5 of countries of origin in the EU+ countries, with a total number of about 32,000 applicants. By the end of 2017, more than 47,000 cases remained pending at all instances. Throughout 2018, the country maintained this ranking in the top countries of origin and the total number of Pakistani applicants has remained stable.

The EASO COI Report 'Pakistan security situation' provides a general description of the security situation in Pakistan, covering the following topics: an overview of the recent conflicts in the country; actors in the conflict; an overview of recent security trends and armed confrontations; the impact of the violence on the civilian population; and the impact of the violence on the state ability to secure law and order.

The second part of the report provides an overview of the security situation in a more detailed description of the different regions in Pakistan. In each regional chapter, a short description is given of the region, the background of the violence as well as the actors present in the region, followed by a description of the security trends, and the impact of the violence on the population.

The main findings of the report include an overall decrease in total numbers of violent incidents and casualties throughout 2017 and 2018. However, security operations and armed clashes were still reported in all four provinces of Pakistan and in the FATA in the context of operation Radd-ul-Fasaad. Militant groups also continued to conduct attacks in 2017 and 2018, including suicide attacks, targeted killings, and sectarian-related violence. In the run-up to the general elections held in July 2018, several violent incidents and some major attacks occurred throughout the country.

The report was drafted by the Belgian Office of the Commissioner General for Refugees and Stateless Persons (Cedoca, Centre for Documentation and Research) in accordance with the EASO COI Report Methodology. It was reviewed by experts from the Office for Country Information and Language Analysis in the Dutch Immigration and Naturalization Service, the Immigration and Asylum Office Documentation Centre in the Hungarian Office of Immigration and Nationality, the Department of Documentation and Foreign Cooperation in the Slovakian Migration Office, Lifos, the Centre for Country of Origin Information and Analysis in the Swedish Migration Agency and EASO, in order to ensure the highest quality [...]

EASO publishes first country guidance

The 'Country Guidance: Afghanistan' is the result of a pilot development, aimed at fostering convergence in Member States' decision practices.

In its 28th meeting of 6-7 June 2018, the EASO Management Board endorsed the first country guidance note. This guidance note is the result of a pilot process, in which EASO coordinated the efforts of senior-level policy officials from Member States in producing a joint assessment of the situation in Afghanistan. The pilot process was launched in accordance with the Outcome of the 3461st Council meeting of 21 April 2016, and is a step in the preparation for the enhanced mandate envisaged for the Agency under the proposed Regulation on the European Union Agency for Asylum \(EUAA\).

The country guidance is based on common up-to-date country of origin information \(COI\), produced in accordance with the EASO COI methodology. This information is analysed in accordance with EU legislation on qualification for international protection (Directive 2011/95/EU), the case law of the Court of Justice of the European Union and, where appropriate, of the European Court of Human Rights. It also takes into account general EASO guidance on the examination of applications for international protection (EASO practical tools) and takes note of the relevant UNHCR Eligibility Guidelines.

It is a non-binding document, which aims at assisting decision-makers from the national asylum authorities in examining the applications from the particular country of origin and, ultimately, at fostering convergence in the decision practices of Member States.

EASO publishes a Country of Origin Information (COI) report on the Security Situation in Afghanistan

[...] The European Asylum Support Office (EASO) published a Country of Origin Information (COI) Report entitled 'Afghanistan Security situation - Update'. The report is an update of the EASO COI Afghanistan Security Situation Report, published in December 2017. It provides an update of some of the information found to be time-sensitive, while still referring to the December 2017 report for more long-term, contextual information.

In 2017, Afghanistan ranked third in the top countries of origin of applications received by EU+ countries with more than 47,000 asylum applications. In the first four months of 2018, more than 12,000 applications have been lodged in the EU+ by Afghans, thus remaining in third position in the overall applications to date. In addition, Afghan applications constitute an important backlog in EU+ countries. At the end of April 2018, more than 32,000 applications from Afghan nationals were awaiting a first instance decision in the EU+'. The 'Afghanistan Security situation - Update' provides a description of the general security situation in Afghanistan, as well as the situation in each of the 34 provinces and Kabul City. In these provincial chapters, a subchapter is dedicated to the actors in the conflict in this province. A second subchapter describes the recent security trends and the impact on the civilian population. The terms of reference of this report were defined based on information needs identified by asylum policy experts in EU+ countries and UNHCR. The report presents information until 31 March 2018.

The report is drafted in accordance with the EASO COI Report Methodology. It was based on information provided by the Country of Origin Information (COI) department from the Austrian Federal Office for Immigration and Asylum, completed with information added by the EASO COI sector. The report was reviewed and commented upon by COI researchers from Belgium, Denmark, France, Italy, Slovakia and Sweden.

It is EASO's intention to continue to produce such reports on important countries of origin and to update them regularly in order to raise and harmonise COI standards in the EU and to further support the practical implementation of the Common European Asylum System.

Call for input towards the 2017 Annual Report on the Situation of Asylum in the European Union

EASO has issued an invitation to its civil society stakeholders to provide their input to the Agency's 2017 Annual Report on the Situation of Asylum in the EU. Contributions, which are open to civil society organisations, may be sent until 16 February 2018 to ids@easo.europa.eu and consultative-forum@easo.europa.eu, using a dedicated form.

One of EASO's key tasks is to produce an Annual Report on the situation of asylum in the European Union with an overview of key aspects of the Common European Asylum System. This includes a comprehensive analysis of relevant statistics, as well as information on important asylum-related developments at EU+ and national level, as well as on the practical functioning of the CEAS. The Report provides an opportunity to look into the key challenges and achievements in the previous year, reflects the ongoing debates and puts into context the operational activities and work of EASO. The launch of the Report is accompanied with a public event, providing a forum to openly discuss and debate the main issues at stake as regards international protection in the EU, with a focus on current key themes in each year, such as the relocation programme.

The Report has been published since 2011 and as an independent centre of expertise on asylum, EASO endeavours to make the report as comprehensive and accurate as possible, taking account of information available from a wide range of sources. The 2016 edition of the Report welcomed the highest number of contributions from civil society to-date. To further enhance the transparency and the inclusive nature of the Report, contributions received from civil society were published on EASO's website. There, you can also find the results of an evaluation survey on the added value and usefulness of the Report, which again brought helpful insights and feedback from a broad group of stakeholders.

EASO believes that the wide scope of sources used contributed significantly to the overall quality and value of the report and we were happy to see that the Report is highly appreciated by its readership. We are looking forward to further enhancing the ongoing dialogue and multifaceted cooperation between EASO and civil society actors, and await your contributions.
